

L&A provides 'second-to-none' support to fully and effectively address our client's security program needs. L&A is valued for its senior leadership experience base within the government through its cadre of retired Senior Executive Service executives.

CAPABILITIES

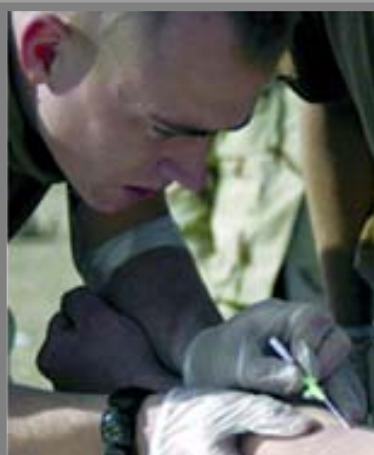

Our highly-experienced and committed personnel assist our clients by providing viable security programs that meet DOE, other federal agencies, and commercial sector objectives. Our comprehensive, mature approach includes these key steps:

- Identify deficiencies and opportunities for improvement
- Prepare corrective action plans
- Validate effectiveness of corrective actions
- Assist with continuous improvement of performance
- Assure contract compliance
- Perform post-event security analysis

Our senior management team is expert at trouble-shooting and problem-solving complex nuclear security, facility, and transportation security challenges, leading to successful resolution of priority mission challenges. We have performed external independent reviews under the DOE contractor assurance system, contract compliance reviews, and performance baseline reviews. We are able to help our clients develop effective tactical and strategic plans for executing their missions. Our expertise allows us to assist security operators charged with constructing security facilities or integrating state-of-the-art security systems into existing facilities effectively on-schedule and within budget. Our clients rely on L&A to assist them in delivering a quality, safe, secure, and compliant security program that focuses on mission first.

PROJECT EXPERIENCE

L&A was tasked to research and formulate a plan to bridge the security requirements codified by the DOE and the NRC for operating a DOE nuclear facility licensed by the NRC. L&A developed a gap analysis, strategic plan, and budget model. Additionally, L&A prepared a communication plan for working with the respective headquarters organizations for bridging the differences between entities. L&A routinely has assisted large, international security companies in proposal and orals preparation, and independent reviews for penetrating DOE and DoD security markets. L&A's extensive knowledge of the DOE vulnerability assessment modeling and Graded Security Protection Requirements has been utilized by security contractors, (such as at the Nevada National Security Site), and federal government organizations via independent security analyses.
